(i) With a view to restricting the growth rate of slums by reducing in-migration from rural areas, the scheme of Integrated Development of Small and Medium Towns (IDSMT) is being implemented since the Sixth Five Year Plan where under central assistance is provided to small and medium towns for infrastructure works.

(ii) The scheme of Environmental Improvement of Urban Slums (EIUS), which was originally initiated by the Central Government and later transferred to the State Sector, seeks to provide basic physical amenities like low cost water supply, drainage, storm water drainage, sewage, community baths and latrines, widening/paving of lanes and street lighting in slums.

(iii) The scheme of Urban Basic Services for the Poor (UBSP) seeks to provide social services such as pre-school learning, health care and non-formal education in low income neighbourhoods by converging the efforts of the different development departments through the creation of neighbourhood groups.

(iv) The Nehru Rozgar Yojana (NRY) seeks to develop employment opportunities for unemployed and under-employed persons belonging to households living below the poverty line through upgradation of skills and assistance for setting up micro enterprises.

(v) The Housing & Urban Development Corporation (HUDCO) provides loans for housing to economically weaker sections of the society at subsidised rates of interest for catering to their housing and shelter upgradation needs.

(vi) The Centrally sponsored scheme of Infrastructural Development of Mega Cities Comprising of Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, Bangalore and Hyderabad envisages to provide finance for urban infrastructure including slum improvement.

(vii) During the Seventh Plan Period, one time grant of Rs. 100 crores was sanctioned by the then Prime Minister in 1985 for tackling the housing and slum problems in Bombay.

(viii) The Ministry of Finance has also allotted Rs. 50 crores each to Maharashtra and West Bengal for provision of basic amenities in slums in Bombay and Calcutta on a matching basic— on the recommendation of the Ninth Finance Commission.
